NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF Manufacturers

The NAM's Appellate Litigation Program – At Work For You

The NAM's Supreme Court and appellate practice surpasses nearly every business organization in the breadth and importance of the cases in which we become involved. We regularly champion the interests of manufacturing in cases before the Supreme Court of the United States and federal and state courts of appeals. Highlights of our program include:

- Legal briefs have been prepared by premier litigators such as John G. Roberts, Jr., Victor Schwartz and Walter Dellinger.
- Our caseload is directed by an efficient in-house lawyer with more than 30 years of appellate experience.
- We have helped secure victories in punitive damages, securities, public nuisance, resale price maintenance, Alien Tort Statute and other cases.
- Our current priorities focus on environmental regulation, health and retirement benefits, OSHA regulations, tort reform statutes, asbestos, trial procedures, state taxation and trademark infringement.

For further details on these and other issues, visit the NAM's Manufacturing Law Center Search Engine at http://lawcenter.nam.org. You can find out about all the major cases affecting manufacturers in the Supreme Court, as well as all the cases in the lower courts in which the NAM is involved.
