Washington Benefits from Exports!

Manufactured goods exports are the strongest part of Washington's economy even though Washington and other states export only half as much of their production as the world average. America's exports and the related jobs could double if Congress passes strong pro-export legislation.

- Manufactured exports support 41 percent of Washington's manufacturing jobs, the highest proportion of any state.
- Since 2003, Washington manufacturing exports have risen about as fast as the state's overall economy.
- 90 percent of Washington exporters are small businesses (2009).
- Washington exported $9.3 billion of manufactured goods to Free Trade Agreement (FTA) partner countries in 2010 – 23 percent of Washington's total.
